Private. Christian. Affordable.

WHAT IS OUR VISION?

Here at the Colangelo College of Business, our programs are based around the vision and values of our business college namesake, Mr. Jerry Colangelo. Mr. Colangelo is not just a name on the outside of the building. He has established himself as a true pioneer and entrepreneur within the sports and business industry. As the former owner of the NBA Phoenix Suns, MLB Arizona Diamondbacks and most recently, director of Team USA Men's Basketball for the Olympics, his merits and accomplishments are vast, timeless and relevant in today's business environment. He is the chairman of our business advisory board and can often be seen interacting with our students.

Our mission is to provide a hands-on education, taught by experienced professionals, in an environment that helps create connections, networking opportunities, internships and world experience that can't be gained from a textbook. Here at the Colangelo College of Business, we believe that is invaluable.

CLUBS AND ACTIVITIES

The Colangelo College of Business (CCOB) offers opportunities to exercise your skills in leadership development and enjoy camaraderie with your fellow Lopes. Begin a student-run club or join others in networking opportunities with your GCU peers. Here are just a few of the activities and organizations where CCOB students can get involved and apply their entrepreneurial skills:

CANYON ANGELS

Canyon Angels is a Phoenix-based, 501(c)6, member-led organization that serves as a facilitator to filter early stage, high-growth investment opportunities for GCU member investors. As a GCU investor group and angel investment network, Canyon Angels helps fund business startup ventures around the nation and provides students with due diligence experience.

“In Canyon Angels, we help students understand what startup companies are looking for and really work hard to give them that hands-on learning experience. We love questions – the more the better! That’s why we try to get as many guest speakers as possible.”

– Christian Ivascanin, Canyon Angels

CHARLES SCHWAB FINANCE CENTER

The multiyear grant from Schwab Advisor Services, in partnership with the Charles Schwab Foundation may help students get one step ahead in all facets of financial services. It will create a home for finance classes and finance clubs and provide a destination for guest speakers on investing and financial literacy.

WOMEN IN BUSINESS

“The Women in Business club was founded to enhance the college experience of female business students. Co-founding the club has already been hugely influential in preparing me for my career. Through the club, I was connected to my current job, given real leadership experience and made connections with leaders in the Phoenix business community.”

– Belle Rakestraw, Bachelor of Science in Business Management, Class of 2024

CANYON VENTURES

Established in August 2015, Canyon Ventures is GCU's unique organization that brings together scholars, entrepreneurs, investors, revenue growth experts and mentors to create a collaborative business environment. The space includes local businesses who have committed to give career opportunities to GCU students. Some businesses are even started by students, and all of the organizations provide Lopes with industry-caliber experience. Visit gcuworks.com to learn more.

CANYON CHALLENGE

GCU's entrepreneurial pitch competition Canyon Challenge is held twice a year and gives students a chance to compete for investor dollars to be put into the products they develop specifically for the challenge.

PROJECT MANAGEMENT CLUB

“The Project Management Club (PMC) is very interesting, but not many students know about it! I believe it's one of GCU's best kept secrets. When the club started up again after the pandemic, I jumped at the opportunity to be on the leadership team. Since then, I have been the director of communications and this coming year I will be the president. I'm incredibly proud of how our group helps students to prepare for their project management career by providing them with real-world opportunities, such as CityServe and other local charities that build our community. I had the chance to really put my project management skills into practice. It's been an amazing journey so far and I've loved every minute of my involvement with the PMC.” – Avery Bernard, Bachelor of Science in Entrepreneurial Studies with a Minor in Pre-Law, Class of 2023

FALL 2021 WINNER - WASH THE CITY

"As I began to pursue Christ more purposefully in my sophomore year at GCU, I felt called to serve my city. One day, I was driving in my car and the name Washed Clothing (Washed Apparel Serving Humanity Every Day) came into my mind. So, I went home, bought the domain and set up the Instagram. The first post was a challenge to let people know that I would match the number of new followers with the same number of shirts being distributed to the homeless. The next week I walked into downtown Phoenix with a plastic clothing rack and 25 T-shirts. I had no clue if this was really going to be impactful at all. But the words of a man who received one of the shirts really kept me going: 'You don't understand what it's like to wake up in the morning and not be able to shower. All we have is a Washed T-shirt.' I was like, 'Oh, wow. I'm really making a difference in helping people'.

For any GCU business student, the Canyon Challenge is the ultimate. So, to be able to not only go through the process of pitching Washed Clothing (which is now Wash the City) – but to actually win – that was a truly fantastic experience that I'll never forget."

– Jayce Candrea, BS in Business Management, Colangelo College of Business, Class of 2022

SPRING 2022 WINNER - CAMPUS CONSIGNMENT

"I have a real heart for minimizing waste, so I loved the idea of putting a thrift shop on the GCU campus. But having a regular brick-and-mortar store wasn't really possible because of the space needed to hold the inventory. So, I started thinking about the different marketplace groups online and how disorganized and cluttered most of them were. I felt that there was a better option. So, I started initially looking online for code builders, but ultimately ended up building the app myself and launching Campus Consignment within a three-month period so that it was ready for the Canyon Challenge in April.

In order to be considered for the Canyon Challenge, you must first go through the IDEA club. On a final day about a week before the competition, everyone who wants to be considered shows up and we pitch 'Shark Tank' style. There were over 25 people with their pitch and out of that, five were selected to compete in the official Canyon Challenge. I was so excited and honored to be one of the finalists. But to actually win...that was very, very exciting and a great reward."

- Melissa Papulski, Double Major: Bachelor of Arts in Digital Film (College of Arts and Media) and Bachelor of Science in Applied Entrepreneurship (Colangelo College of Business), Class of 2022

INTERNSHIPS AND EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Real workplace learning experiences and academics go hand-in-hand in preparing for your future. Internships are a valued part of gaining career development and getting ahead during job searches.

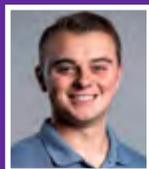

"GCU really provided a lot of opportunities that helped prepare me for my current job as a senior associate at Vanguard. I was an officer in the Finance Club for my last two years at GCU and also got involved with Canyon Angels, which is an angel investment group that helps fund scalable startups. And all of my finance professors were amazing. They work hard to prepare you for taking your Securities Industry Essentials (SIE) tests – which are really tough, but so important to your future success."

– Michael Osborne, Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a Minor in Marketing, Class of 2021

"I'm currently with Charles Schwab in advisor services, working with advisors from different firms. I help them with any questions that they have about any of their client accounts, set up journaling between bank accounts and offer assistance on the shop platform. I was referred to this job by one of my professors, Alan Klibanoff, who has had huge impact on my professional development. He truly changed the course of my education."

– Johanna Gonzalez, Bachelor of Science in Finance and Economics, Class of 2022

"I currently work for a Phoenix-based firm called Trinity Capital and we do venture debt and equipment financing. A professor at GCU actually made the introduction to Trinity for me on my behalf. GCU's entrepreneurship program revolves around two main things: learning how to solve a problem and the business model canvas. So, when I'm talking to founders and CEOs and CFOs, a lot of the questions that I'm asking revolve around those pillars: What is your total market? How are you doing with revenue? How fast can you scale from where you are? I really got a solid business foundation from my entrepreneurial studies at GCU and it's been exciting to put these skills to work at Trinity."

– Carson Foley, Double Major: BS in Entrepreneurial Studies and Marketing and Advertising, Class of 2021
